HOBBY FAIR BRINGS TO NOTICE MANY YOUNG ARTISANS

Handicraft of Young America
Now on Exhibition
Here

IS A SURPRISE TO ALL

Prizes and Ribbons Are Given
To Those Having Best
Exhibits

A mecca for boys and girls of all ages has the community house, Dorance and Cedar streets, been for the past few days.

With the entries in the hobby fair on exhibit prior to the judging last night, interest was keen from all sources. Those who had entered specimens of their hobby were anxious to see how the same showed up alongside the others on display, and those not entering were just as anxious to view the collections of their pals.

All kinds of items from an oil painting to a "doctored" snake are to be seen on the long tables that line the room, and each lad and lassie has to reach out with its left hand to stop its right one from handling the queer, shiny, minute or graceful objects as the case might happen to be.

The first section glimpsed, nearest the entrance, is given over to boy scout work. Here are shown miniature camps, with one cabin made of match-sticks, a knot-board, etc., the work of Troop Five of Bristol. Troop One has lined up a fine collection of stone, quartz, and other minerals; not to mention the group of wood-pieces, taken from various specimens of trees, as well as bark and pine needles.

Two lone specimens are seen in the oil-painting department, but it was most gratifying to the judges to learn that some of the boys had leanings in this direction.

By viewing the manual training department work, it is safe to guess Bristol will not lack for carpenters, builders or woodworkers in years to come. And they are bound to be adept at their trade too, judging from the start. One footstool in the center of the group, would please any home-maker, and this is tastefully finished with a covering of striped tapestry. A boot-black stand, towel-rack and book-rack, all of which have been given coats of varnish, are contained in the collection. One lad of ten years fashioned a wooden box to contain his Erector set.

Bristolians are having the second opportunity of viewing a most attractive dwelling, with measurements of about 4½ by two feet. This is the same house that was on display in a downtown business place some months ago. It is made of wood, with a roof of special fabric, and the whole thing is finished in brown paint with white trim. One of the unique features of the structure is that it is lighted throughout by electricity. The entire affair was constructed by one boy.

For hours after school yesterday many lads leaned upon the table whereon rested the natural curiosities, and gazed at the long, black snake in a jar, butterflies and praying mantis collections, and garnets in the rough.

Some of the youngsters took delight in accumulating old swords, sabres and other forms of fire arms, which are aged with rust. Coins, including a United States 10-cent paper piece, and a large variety of stamps are in the collection.

Lindbergh, who is foremost in the thoughts and minds of practically all American boys, has not been forgotten, for his "Spirit of St. Louis" is shown in miniature form. The model has been silvered, and is equipped with a replica of a Wright Whirlwind engine. A second engine, just like the one on the small plane, has been mounted on a base, in order that it might be closely inspected. The propeller on the plane is operated by a spring attachment.

The judges have also hung upon the walls the posters submitted in the contest during Boys' Week, and the entire aggregation deserves favorable comment.

The Hobby Fair will be open again this afternoon and this evening and the public is urged to attend and view the exhibit. The committee consisting of M. D. Harrison, Joseph Spencer, John Mulholland, Edgar and Wesley Spencer worked until after midnight, last night, judging the entries. They were confronted with a very difficult task.

One of the late entries and one which created much comment was a magic lantern made from tin cans. The lantern works and last night pictures were successfully shown by the improvised type.

Prizes were awarded as follows:

SECTION ONE, CLASS A

First prize, monoplane, Henry E. Ancker, 15 years old; second prize, monoplane, Edward Beksvort, 15 years old; third prize, seaplane, Thomas Lefferty, 10 years old.

SECTION ONE, CLASS B

UNIQUE EXHIBIT TO BE HELD HERE NEXT WEEK

Huge Fir Log Hollowed Out
For Two - Room
Apartment

FAMILY OCCUPIES IT

The Bucks County Unit of the Pennsylvania Lumbermen's Association with which Pelee & Williams, Fred Leibfried and C. S. Wetherill, local lumber dealers, are affiliated, is arranging for a unique exhibit to be held here on May 9th.

The exhibit is very interesting. It is a 10 foot in diameter Douglas Fir log mounted on a truck chassis. The log is hollowed out and has been fitted up as apartments for a Mr. and Mrs. Wade to live in.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade have been sent out by the West Coast Lumber Manufacturers' Association and have driven 8,000 miles and visited practically every state in the Union.

The log itself is the largest ever seen by Mr. Wade who has worked for years in the big timber country of western Washington and Oregon. This tree grew in Grays Harbor County, in western Washington. It is part of a log which furnished nine more logs each 22 feet in length. The tree was about 311 feet high and contained about 50,000 board feet of lumber or about four car loads. The tree has been named the "Columbus" because after cutting it was found to be 434 years old having started to grow just about the year America was discovered.

The 9x16 foot log from which Mr. Wade made his home on wheels contained 6580 board feet of lumber. A hole was bored 2 inches through the center of log then a 4 foot hole was burned through. A great deal of labor was required together with electric saws and wedges to complete the work of hollowing out the log. The interior was then transformed into a modern two room apartment with built-in breakfast nook, cupboard and wardrobe. Two beds fold up against the wall and there are electric lights and an oil stove for cooking.

There is enough of this timber left in the West to last the United States for generations. The forestry authorities estimate that western Washington and Oregon alone can supply all of the lumber the United States will need forever due to its fast growth of young trees after cutting.

The interesting part of this display is the immense size of the trees which to a person who has never seen a large log is very interesting.

The location of the exhibit in Bristol will be announced at a later date.

CONTESTS WERE KEEN

The league this year was a fight for supremacy in both halves. The first half the office team captured first place with the machine shop finishing a close second.

The play-off for second half honors was won by the Machine Shop.

In the final play-off for the championship which was a five game affair was a close and hard fought match, the office winning the first, the Machine Shop the second and third, the office the fourth, which made matters even up. The final and deciding game was won by the Machine Shop by a close margin of 13 pins.

Prizes for the league winner will be distributed at the banquet and entertainment which will be held on or about May 14th at Maple Beach Inn.

Gold medals will be presented to the members of the Machine Shop team; bronze medals to the members of the office team and others will receive medals for high individual score for match and high average for the season.

AGED EMILIE MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

Henry C. Lovett, Aged 82,
Succumbs at Home of William Ettinger

A LIFE-LONG RESIDENT

Henry C. Lovett, who for the 82 years of his life had lived at Emilie, was found dead in bed at the home of William Ettinger, Emilie, this morning.

The aged man was heard to move about his room a short period before the finding of the body by other occupants of the house. When called to breakfast, no response was made, and upon investigation at 7 o'clock, the lifeless form was found.

The deceased was an uncle of Dr. Henry Lovett, of Langhorne, and has one other relative surviving, Mrs. Harry Spencer, of Langhorne.

Mr. Lovett had not experienced the best of health for some time, but as he had been about the house and village, his death was a surprise to the many who knew him.

As a member of the Emilie M. E. Church, he was a faithful attendant at the services, when health would permit. A few years ago he acted as an officer for the Emilie Board of Health.

While his sister, the late Miss Amelia Lovett, was living, the two made their home together in Emilie. Following the death of Miss Lovett, several years ago, Mr. Lovett resided with Mr. and Mrs. Ettinger.

FOURTH WARD BOYS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Capture First Honors on The Diamond in Boys' Week
Events

MARBLE BATTLE TODAY

The Fourth Ward boys won the baseball championship yesterday for the second consecutive year. Among their victims were numbered the Fifth Ward boys, whom they defeated 23 to 10; the Sixth Ward, 9 to 2, and the First Ward, 9 to 4.

The final game with the First Ward was the hardest game on the schedule. These boys would not admit defeat until the last man was retired.

In Tranotti the Fourth Ward boys had a valuable pitcher who won all three games for them. He was ably supported by his eight teammates, who stood out brilliantly in their respective positions.

The Fourth Ward boys incidentally are the possessors of a splendid record; the fact that they have not been beaten in the last two years. Last but by no means least, they have also won the right of possession to a beautiful cup, which will be presented to them at the Grand Theatre on Saturday morning.

Ward elimination contests were also fought out yesterday on the Leedom tennis court when six boys from each of the six wards of Bristol and six each from Edgely and Croydon competed to represent their district in the semi-final or final matches today at four o'clock.

The games were closely fought and the winner in a number of instances was in doubt until the last marble had been knocked out of the ring.

Following were the winners: First ward, Freddie Caputta; second ward, Wayne Warner; third ward, Edward Jefferies; fourth ward, Joseph Roe; fifth ward, John Roberts; sixth ward, William Lafferty; Edgely, James Coyle; Croydon, Fred Oppmann.

STEP-SON BLAMES FATHER FOR SETTING DWELLING AFIRE

John Taber, Ottsville, Placed Under Arrest By Authorities

GETS HEARING TODAY

Boy Tells Complete Story
Which Incriminates
Farmer

Another alleged incendiary has been taken into custody and today will stand trial on the charge of firing his house on April 9th in Nockmixon Township, about three miles east of Ottsville. The arrest was made late last night by Bucks County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse, and Ralph Gardner, special investigator.

John Taber is accused of firing his residence on April 9th. The accusation of Taber was brought about through a step-son who resided with him at the time and who bears a very good reputation in the community.

Taber is married and lives with his wife and five children three miles east of Ottsville. The step-son goes under the name of William Taber, although he says he does not know the name of his real father who was John Taber's wife's first husband.

William Taber tells the authorities that on the day before the fire his mother went to Philadelphia and did not return until the following Wednesday. She returned home after receiving a letter from her husband to the effect that there had been an accident at home.

The authorities interviewed William yesterday and then decided to place the lad's step-father under arrest. William states that his father was killed in the Russian army.

According to the lad's story he returned home from school on April 6th and found a lot of the furniture in the house packed up and downstairs. He inquired of his mother what was happening and was given an evasive answer. The boy did the milking and as he set the bucket down in the manger as he always did he found that there was something beneath it. He investigated and found an old bag containing papers of his step-father, such as insurance policies, etc.

A few days later beds and mattresses were taken from the house and stored in the barn, according to the boy.

On April 9th William and one of his step-brothers, Alexander, 7, were told by the father to go up the creek fishing. William says that he told his father that it was late and that they yet had the work to do. But the father persisted and told them to go and catch some fish. They caught one fish and returned and were sent back to the creek by the father.

Then the two boys heard shouting and their father calling. They looked and could see smoke. They returned and found the house afire up in the attic. William inquired of his father the cause of the blaze and was told "the boys must have had something around the stove." William contends that the fire started in the opposite end of the house from where the stove was located.

A ladder 20 feet long was found standing against the end of the house where the fire started. This ladder had stood a short time before against a tree.

John Zucko and daughter, Anna, neighbors, testify to the good character of the boy, William. They went to the scene of the fire after it had been burning for a time. A gasoline can which had been full a short time before was found empty. The only use Taber had for gasoline was in a motor used for sawing wood. No wood had been sawed for months.

The house was insured for $1,000.

THE AWAKENING ORIENT

"Made in China" means not only that the article bearing that legend is produced in China but that it is produced at a cost 25 to 40 per cent less than the cost of manufacturing the same thing in the United States. That difference in production cost is the basis for the surprising development that has taken place in China in recent years.

In going over the list of electrical products turned out by various factories in Chinese industrial centers, it is amazing to note the number of articles which this small industry already has contributed, almost wholly through the efforts of native engineers. All the ordinary electrical devices of the Occident have been duplicated, even to electric motors, and practically the only machinery used extensively in the electrical industry that is still exclusively imported from America and Europe is large dynamos.

Fans, heaters, every sort of fixture, switch and insulator, radio apparatus and other delicate instruments, transformers and motors, incandescent lamps and household appliances are included in the list, and in many cases there is a distinct tendency to suit the goods produced to the peculiar demands of the Chinese market, something which none of the foreign firms has yet attempted, and to engage to a limited extent in export trade.

As far as the United States is concerned there is little threat in this industrial development in China. That country's consumption of electrical apparatus is relatively small and should it ever become electrified on a large scale it is doubtful that the domestic industry could meet the demand.

DRESSING TO PLEASE

A few days ago much space was given in the news to the claim that styles and cuts in feminine raiment are largely controlled by men. Now it appears that, to a large extent, women select and buy men's attire for store trade. That makes it about fifty-fifty—and why not an admirable arrangement?

As a rule the object of fastidious feminine dressers is at least to pass muster with the male element at reviewing stations, and with the masculine peacocks it is the feminine observer whose praise is sought. The matter standing thus, it is a logical arrangement for women to wear clothes that men have designed and for men to deck themselves in raiment that women have selected.

If alienated affections really were worth a fortune, they couldn't have been alienated.

SYNOPSIS

Enrico de Solano y Vasquez, proud and romantic Spaniard, claims in 1776 for King Philip of Spain the and bordering on what is now San Francisco Bay. The Vasquez hacienda is erected on the beautiful and extensive acres overlooking the bay, and life moves along in the idyllic, carefree manner of Old Spain. In 1848 two grandsons and their mother are the last of the proud line. The discovery of gold disturbs their calm existence.

"Gold!" gasped Don Hernandez, an unexpressed eagerness, smiling happily at his brother.

But the head of the house replied sadly, "No, my brother, a gold rush is to be deplored. Gold awakens greed and lust—it spares no one—our laborers will leave—it will mean a social upheaval."

The youth's enthusiasm waned with his smile. He had thought only of the adventure and nothing of the disastrous consequences.

But his Mother knew and sighed, "Gold and money mean so little, my sons, they cannot buy dreams, a good name and peace."

However, these fine immaterial niceties of life meant nothing to red blooded men. Practically every able bodied male in the state, thrilled with the news and prospects of gold, pulled up stakes and hit the trail to Sutter's Mill. That is, with the exception of the Spaniards, who with their usual love of lazy indolence and ease, failed to

One loyal and courageous little servant grasped the bride of his Master's favorite horse when he saw that Captain Stoner was about to mount and ride him away without permission.

"Spawn of the Devil!" cursed Stoner, "cast off!" and he knocked the peon backward with a cruel blow.

The helpless heap of abused humanity rolled and fell unconscious at Vasquez's feet.

"Captain Stoner! What does this mean?" demanded the young master, his Spanish eyes flashing with righteous fury.

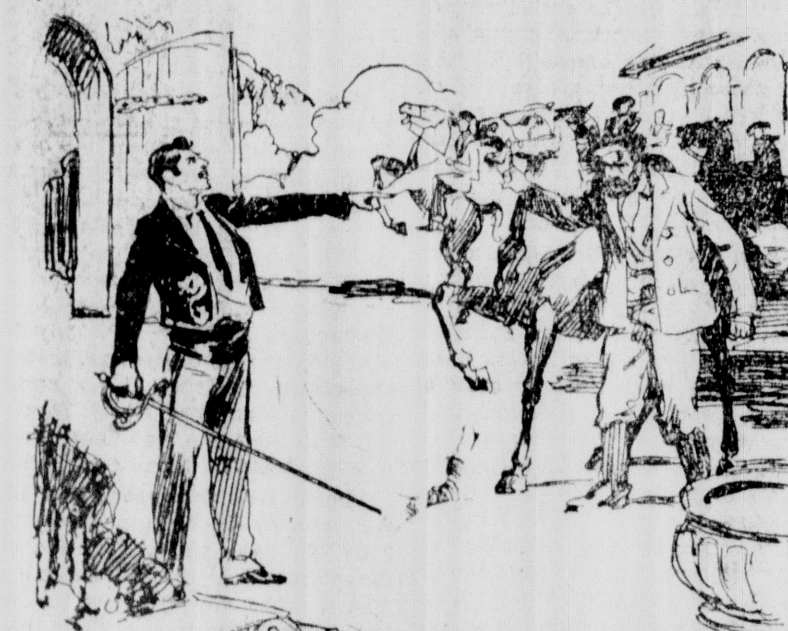

"It means we've worked for you long enough," Stoner eyed his youthful employer with deadly calm. "You'll find your ship at anchor in the bay. We've resigned and are taking our pay in horses—understand?"

The sailors mounted on saddled steeds, gave mute evidence of the fact.

Like a true son of a long line of proud aristocrats, Vasquez stood his ground. "Stoner, you forget that I am head of the House of Vasquez." His eyes took on a deadly glint. "I order you to replace my property and return to your ship at once."

He waited with all the assurance of a small child who has asked a cow to give him a glass of milk and is surprised when his bidding is not immediately obeyed.

"You jellyfish!" hissed Stoner in contempt, "we're going to the gold fields and you can't stop us—this is a new era—the world's turned upside down, and now you and your family glory don't mean a damn thing."

"You shall not leave the Vasquez estate on stolen horses unless you ride me down."

join the new progressive enterprise or soil their aristocratic fingers in gold digging.

As soon as the news was passed on by galloping horsemen the gold rush became an actuality.

Unwilling to admit the menace, Senora Vasquez turned into the hacienda with her sons. Their guests were due, shortly, and they must be ready to extend every hospitality.

No sooner had they left the patio than a faithful peon came running in breathlessly and stopped before them to whisk off his soiled cap and gasp in great agitation. "In the stable yard, señor—Captain Stoner and his sailor men—steal your horses!"

"The fiends!" snapped Vasquez angrily.

Don Hernandez, agitated by an equal anger, leaped to his feet and raced headlong down the stairs. It was a call to arms!

"Wait, my brother," called the elder, "I am the head of the house of Vasquez! You remain with our Mother and leave weighty matters to me."

With this reminder he disappeared in the house. Hardly a moment elapsed before he returned brandishing the great sword of the Vasquez. The same splendid blade that had been plunged into San Francisco ground by their illustrious ancestor seventy-two years earlier.

Don Hernandez was crestfallen and disappointed at being denied a chance to share in the excitement and avenge their name, but obedience to the head of the family had always been the first law of Spanish life. He reluctantly remained at his Mother's side.

Coming around the building with grim determined step the elder brother halted at sight of such feverish activity in the stable yard.

A gruff, burly, bewhiskered man of forty was Captain Stoner, and he appeared as much in command of the situation as if he had been on the bridge of his ship at sea.

"You greasy swabs!" he thundered at the terrified peons, "throw some saddles on those horses' backs and tighten up the belly straps!"

They covered before this verbal lash and waited upon the impatient Captain and his sailors like helpless galley slaves.

A quick intake of breath was followed by an amazed silence, and Vasquez stood stunned by Stoner's defiance.

"All aboard for the gold fields, men!" signalled the Captain, and his sailors climbed into their saddles.

Vasquez suddenly regained his senses and sprang into the archway to bar their departure with his body.

"You shall not leave the Vasquez estate on stolen horses unless you ride me down." It was a grand gesture, devoid of all pretense and show—he meant it. The sun shone blindingly on the famous Vasquez sword as he held it high in his outflung arm.

The sailors pulled in their horses to a dead stop and eyed their Captain inquiringly.

Stoner did not mount, but his mind was made up. The defiance of a romantic Spaniard was not going to alter his plans. Whipping out a pistol he fired—a cold blooded shot—the brave youth who was defending property and name with his very life.

A blood red spot grew on the breast of Vasquez's soft white shirt. He swayed on his feet. His left hand crept up—not to ease the pain but to stop his life's blood from oozing out until he had had a chance to prove that his eyes could still see and that his right hand was still strong and true enough to avenge the insult.

The report of Stoner's cowardly shot echoed in Senora Vasquez's heart. Instinctively she knew that it had found its mark in her son. Don Hernandez heard, it too, and without hesitation rushed around the hacienda eager to take his place beside his brother.

Back in the stable yard the peon laborers and vaqueros were huddled together in fear and trembling, the sailors were stunned into silence, but Captain Stoner—a leech upon his big loose lips—blew through the smoking barrel of his revolver with gloating satisfaction.

Summoning the last bit of his remaining strength, Vasquez lunged toward Stoner with drawn sword. His mouth, distorted with pain, opened pitifully to cry out, "A Vasquez avenges a Vasquez!" but the strain was too great and he fell tottering to the tiled floor.

Ringling Circus To Be
In Phila. Next Week

Yep, youngsters, it's really true! Meaning that the rumor heard some time ago is now confirmed by the official announcement that the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows will positively exhibit at Philadelphia six days, May 7th to 12th, inclusive.

At that time the world's first and only five ring circus will be within easy reach of local sawdust fans. With it will come the only sea elephant ever captured alive. He is "Goliath," caught last summer in the Arctic and brought to this country to be the feature attraction of the "Big Show's" menagerie of a thousand animals.

The circus is now a third larger than it was the last time that it visited this locality. Enormous new displays have been introduced such as zebras, camels, ponies and horses performing at one time on a mammoth pedestal. On a similar series of raised platforms thirty-two of the show's forty-three elephants dance, run and perform in unison with the topmost of the ponderous actors twenty feet above the ground. Prior to this display five herds of elephants appear in the five separate rings. At another time the rings are given over to five companies of liberty horses who perform almost human tricks without word or cue from their trainers. At still another juncture of the program two hundred of the show's 900 horses, each ridden by an expert, are seen in brilliant maneuvers.

Of the sixteen hundred people carried on tour this season, more than eight hundred are the world's foremost aerialists, bareback riders, ground and lofty gymnasts, high-wire artists and super athletes. These are now seen in extensive groups and troupes, each display led by its particular champions, a new method of presentation that is in keeping with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey 1928 plan of extending acts in equal number over the entire length of the mammoth main tent.

Little folks will be delighted to learn that the bringing of a score of European clowns to America has increased the fun-makers to more than a hundred.

Novel Social To Be Given by The Baptists

Another novel social is being planned by the First Baptist Church. This time it is to be known as a "Mutt and Jeff Social."

The title itself is one to arouse interest, and those who are taking care of the program promise that the event itself will be just as interesting as the caption of the affair.

The "Juffs" who attend will be lucky, inasmuch as their price of admission will be small. The charge will be made according to height, therefore the "short ones" have the advantage. A certain sum will be made for each foot of height, plus one cent per inch over that.

A fine entertainment and refreshments will add to the festivities. The program follows: Piano solo, selected, Miss Vera Donnell; a farce, "Katie's New Hat" with the following characters: Mrs. Murphy, an Irish lady, Mrs. Elwood Dyer; Susie, Norah and Maggie Murphy, her daughters, Charlotte Chamberlain, Elizabeth Cook and Mildred Dyer, respectively; Mrs. Schneider, a German woman, Mrs. John D. Weik; Katie Schneider, her daughter, Roberta Pearson.

A monologue, "Buying a Hat," Miss

Gladys Bell; cornet solo, selected, Thomas Argus; solo, "The Song is Ended but the Melody Lingers On," Miss Beatrice Williams and Sunday School class; a sketch, "Paris Labels," a comedy in one act with characters as follows: Lottie, head saleslady for Madame Celeste, Mrs. Joseph Talbot; Nanette, her assistant, Miss Laura Ellis; Peggy Hillard, Miss Mildred Randall; Julia Waldron, Mrs. Frank Hilgendorff; models—Dolores, Zoe Gould; Sylvia, Winifred Tracy; Imogene, Gladys Bell; Lillian, Jennie Minkema; Mavis, Hazel Quillan.

Sunday Baseball Opens Here
On Afternoon of May 6th

Tacony Indians will have their opening attraction here Sunday, May 6th, at Sullivan's Field, the strong Lorraine Giants of Philadelphia. This club in the past has defeated some of the leading clubs in Philadelphia and New Jersey, having in its line-up some former Hildale and Harrisburg Giants players.

The Indians will take the field with Jack Curry, former Philadelphia National League product, behind the bat; Charley Acker, formerly with Bridesburg and Wildwood clubs at first base; Eddie Rowe, home town boy, at second base; Conny Noe, with Holmesburg

A. A. last season at short stop. Smith the little infielder that played such a good game of ball for Bridesburg last year when they defeated Bristol here will be third baseman.

The outfield is made up of Mac Elroy, former Disston player; Paul Barrett, from St. Joseph Prep, and Lew Brown, the "hitting fool," that played a few games at first base for Bristol last season. The pitching selection will probably be Kenton, Holmesburg A. A., or "Lefty" Saltenberger, formerly with Hagerstown, of the Blue Ridge League.

Sickly Boy, 7, Gains
15 Lbs.—Father Happy

"My boy, 7, would not eat. I gave him Vinol and the way he eats and plays now makes me happy. He gained 15 pounds."—J. F. Andres.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. The very FIRST bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or adults. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Tastes delicious. Harry H. Headley, druggist. (Adv.)

Picture of a man about to drive a car faster than he ever has before

He's about to try out a Flying Cloud of 1929, this man you see here. He's going to drive a motor car faster than he ever has before.

It won't be simply because this Flying Cloud will easily hit a higher speed than any car he ever owned.

But he can step on the gas and the front end won't shiver when the speedometer flicks from seventy up.

He'll have brakes that will stop him more quickly and gently than those on the old "bus." The steering wheel will lie quietly in his hands—and straighten out automatically if he has to round a curve.

There won't be any bumps in the road, no matter how fast he goes.

And if he wants to pass a car ahead, he'll learn a few things about acceleration that aren't taught by most automobiles.

If you don't believe it, here's what you can do . . .

Come down and take the place of the man in the picture. Make a Flying Cloud of 1929 do all the things we've talked about.

In your hands she'll travel faster than any other car you ever drove. Tackle the highest hills and the roughest roads you know. Open up the throttle on the longest straight stretch you can find.

Miss Mabel Moore Given Surprise Misc. Shower

Mrs. Fred Speakman, of Pond street, gave a surprise miscellaneous shower at her home on Tuesday night, in honor of her sister, Miss Isabel Moore.

The guests enjoyed the early part of the evening playing games and singing.

The shower of gifts to Miss Moore was a great surprise. She was given a number of strings and was instructed to follow them, which eventually led her to her chair at the dining room table, where she discovered that a package was attached to the end of the strings she was holding. The guests then entered the room and they all enjoyed watching Miss Moore open her various gifts.

The room was attractively decorated with white crepe paper streamers, which were gracefully draped around the room and down over the dome light to the corners of the table. After enjoying a bountiful repast, the guest departed.

Those who enjoyed this pleasant evening were: Misses Isabel Moore, Genevieve Bolton, Elyonta Freese, Gertrude Wisner, Etna Moore, Agnes Stephenson, Mrs. Harry White, Mrs. Albert Wister, Mrs. Joseph Bartonwood, Mrs. Granville Stephenson, Mrs. Granville Stephenson, Mrs. Frank Phipps, Mrs. William McDonald, Mrs. William Speakman, Mrs. Fred Speakman.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lax, dry, evacuated, bowels, called the colon. The water softens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. (Adv.)
